Waltham Forest Trades Council & Waltham Forest Anti-Cuts Union

Waltham Forest
Trades Council

PUBLIC MEETING

Speakers will include: Susan Wills, branch secretary of the UCU branch at Waltham Forest College, Steve White deputy secretary, Waltham Forest NUT, Tom Taylor from the PCS civil servants' union as well as leading activists in other unions.

Teachers and civil servants are balloting for strike action over the massive attack on their pensions.

The pensions loss calculator on the NUT's website spells it out. The government's proposals mean that a young teacher might have to pay in £60 more a month. For what? To be told they must work until they are 68 or have £300,000 stolen from their pension during their retirement!

This attack is just one part of the Con-Dem government's brutal cuts. They tell us they have no choice, that there is no alternative to cuts in jobs and public services, misery, unemployment and poverty.

The Con-Dems are out to destroy the welfare state, including the NHS. They intend to privatise our hospitals and cut £20 billion from the NHS budget over the next four years. But a surge of anger at their plans has put them on the back foot.

Locally the council is slashing services and tearing up the terms and conditions of its workforce.

But the rich are not affected. In fact the number of billionaires in the UK has grown by 20 - over the last year alone!

Fightback!

The 26 March demo showed the huge opposition that exists. The 30 June is the next major date in the fightback against the cuts agenda. This meeting will bring local trade unionists, anti-cuts campaigners, young people and service users together to build support and solidarity for the strike.
