

Lost in UNISON?

Many potential stewards are reluctant to commit until they know what's in store and new stewards often feel overwhelmed in their new role, unsure of what's expected of them, don't know where to get support and advice or how they fit into the bigger union.

Lost in UNISON is a one day induction session developed by existing stewards for new or potential stewards. It gives an overview of the structures in UNISON, the steward's role within the union and the scope of the role.

It also looks at recruitment, helping members as well as identifying sources of support and how to access further training in a fun and informal way.

LOST IN UNISON is available as a branch based course if your branch would prefer the course to be delivered locally. For further information please contact Amanda Mayers.
